MARITA K. SWIFT, Culinary Director at J. Rieger & Co.

Marita K. Swift is the new Culinary Director at J. Rieger & Co. She is a lover of all things food and an avid creator of edible art. Most recently, Marita was the Executive Chef at the former Californos in the historic Westport neighborhood of Kansas City. Marita has curated menus for more than a thousand weddings, catered within the Kansas City business sector, conducted coursework in the culinary arts, and been featured on several live cooking segments. She is a bold innovator, with extensive professional experience working alongside some of the most respected individuals in her culinary community. When she isn't developing new recipes or expanding on the classics, she has an active family life with three young children, and husband Jared, a professional butcher. She enjoys gardening with her family, exploring the lawn at the Nelson-Atkins, and running on the trail in Hyde Park. Marita attributes her passion for food to her mother, an award-winning chef. Whether at home or on the job, a conversation with Marita will inevitably involve newly discovered flavor combinations, elevated meals with minimal preparation, and the appreciation that some old recipes remain unchallenged favorites. In her world, "going to the market is a guilty pleasure, and recipe books are the narrative of life."
